COMPREHENSION PASSAGE

Q1. Read the passage carefully and answers the questions that follow:

Television is undoubtedly a gift of science and is quite popular among the people of all ages. However, excessive watching of TV programmes has an unhealthy effect on children. One observes that children watch TV for a longer time than adults. They are found glued to their seats in front of the TV screens even when the programmes are of no interest to them. The scenes of crime and violence in the films have an adverse effect on the on children. They try to imitate the actors and sometimes even hurt themselves. Those children who sit before TV for long hours lose interest in studies. Parents find it really difficult to take their children away from TV. Excessive watching on TV, especially from short distance, can severely effect children's eyesight. The Romantic scenes which are depicted in songs take the children to fantasy world. This retards the process of intellectual development because TV watching is effortless while studying requires both mental and intellectual exertion. If not controlled, TV can do more harm than good to a child.
